Sharpen those axes and snap those suspenders! The Official Paul Bunyan Show, one of the nation's largest and oldest forest industry trade shows, takes place each October at the Guernsey County Fairgrounds in Old Washington, Ohio.

Visitors to the show find more than 150 exhibitors who represent all facets of the forest industry throughout North America. Representatives are on site to showcase equipment, manpower and the dedication that has made the industry what it is today.

Established in 1957 and organized by the Ohio Forestry Association, Inc. (OFA), the Official Paul Bunyan Show is believed to be the oldest forestry industry show of its kind in the eastern United States and annually attracts thousands of visitors from Ohio and surrounding states. The event's primary focus is to provide access to the current knowledge and technology of forestry products and industry which enhances the quality of life and market competitiveness of individuals, families, industries, and communities. The show is sponsored by Husqvarna.

Throughout the three-day event each October, the Ohio Lumberjack Championship, International Lumberjack Competition, Log Loader Competition, chain saw carving demonstrations, heavy logging equipment demonstrations, entertainment and much more take place.

In addition, the show hosts a dozen educational seminars for all ages to learn from and enjoy. Show goers may attend free seminars on topics ranging from helping landowners address the impact of Emerald Ash Borer to tree "cookie" demonstrations that determine the age of a tree.
