A Painting in Topiary?

How about a famous painting? i.e., Georges Seurat's 1887, A Sunday Afternoon on the Isle of La Grand Jatte, which is a depiction of people gathering on a Sunday afternoon at the Seine

River in Paris. The original is shown at the Art Institute of Chicago. But In downtown Columbus' Old Deaf School Park, artist James T. Mason created the only topiary garden in existence based on a work of art. Elaine Mason was the first of many topiarists to trim and meticulously maintain the living topiaries of 54 people, eight boats, three dogs, a monkey, and a cat. This seven-acre sanctuary is a haven for tranquility.

Franklin Park Conservatory

Visit one of the Midwest's premier botanical landmark and cultural attractions, featuring exceptional plant collections, seasonal art and nature-based exhibitions and a dynamic array of educational opportunities and special events for visitors of all ages. The Conservatory, home to the spectacular "Blooms and Butterflies" exhibit (March-September), is situated in the lovely 88-acre Franklin Park and features indoor gardens filled with exotic plant life and artwork by Dale Chihuly.
